

Crocosmia - Care Guide

Dead Heading

1. Using sharp secateurs remove old heads and stems to ground level.

2. Check for pests and remove.

3. Tidy up loose ends and compost waste material.

1. Select plant to divide, normally a congested clump in need of rejuvenating.

2. Decide where best to divide.

3. If in a pot use hands to break fair sized clumps. If in ground use fork to dig up small sections.

4. Keep dividing clump until happy with the clumps produced.

5. Tidy removing any damaged corms or pests.

6. Repot the clumps in correct sized pots, or replant in ground using compost.
